1) Rar password (newer version rar files have it on top so you shouldn't have any problem with this).2) Autofilter. I use the newest version which, if I remember correctly, is version 4 (I know you can use it in 3, but not in 4).3) Make sure you set the window's properties to direct output.4) My version of the app has a bug with threads; whenever I have more than one app open on the same thread, it can mess up the output. So if you have more than one output window running, close one and reopen and make sure you set it to direct output.5) I output a bunch of data and open it with Excel - for me, that works fine.6) I use Firefox and I've never had a problem with it.7) I have my favorite programming language set up with the correct language and version of Java.8) Do you have a good stand by program? If you're out and someone has access to your computer (they may not have a rar password - the forums or the creators of rar may be able to help), you might want to have a backup of your data. Also, some programs will overwrite old files or change them if there's not a restore point. I hope this helps! Best of luck! 1) Rar password (newer version rar files have it on top so you shouldn't have any problem with this).2) Autofilter.
